From the field:

'As a first-generation high school graduate and the first in my family to attend school on a post-secondary level, I felt a great deal of responsibility. I felt it important to honor my sponsor organization and Michigan AEYC by not squandering this gift of education. Attending college during a pandemic presented unique challenges, but with each semester I pushed myself to meet my goals and surpass expectations. The University of Michigan recognized my efforts by presenting me with the Maize & Blue Award, the highest academic honor bestowed on graduates of U of M. As a recipient of this prestigious award, I was given the opportunity to speak at the State of the University address and at my Commencement ceremony. It was an honor to be recognized amongst such esteemed scholars. Moreover, my parents, my grandmother, my husband, and children were present to witness and celebrate my accomplishment. I may be the first in my family to reach this academic level, but I will not be the last. Looking back at my experience, I am proud of the path I have taken to disrupt the cycle that has limited my family for generations - and to show those who came before me what is truly possible for all of those who come after.' -Chrissandra Padilla, Director of Early Childhood Programs, Bachelor's Degree

Michigan AEYC Mission Statement:

The mission of the Michigan Association for the Education of Young Children is to promote high quality early learning for all children, birth through age 8, by connecting practice, policy, and research. We advance a diverse, dynamic early childhood profession and support all who care for, educate, and work on behalf of young children.
